Brix and WooCommerce integration | Importing item data from the webshop (WooCommerce)

Item import rules for WooCommerce

When Brix imports a new item or variation from WooCommerce, it stores the item's internal Brix code (Id) back in the WooCommerce database.

When WooCommerce sends item data, it also sends that internal code, by which Brix knows whether the item already exists in Brix or a new item or variation must be opened.

If the same item is deleted and opened again in WooCommerce, the internal code is irretrievably lost, and the next item import opens a new item in Brix.
